André has extensive experience both of teaching folkdance and of teaching folkdance teachers. He teaches folkdance for 'Phoenix' in Apeldoorn, the biggest folkdance society in the Netherlands, with approx. 300 members ranging in age from 4 to 82; currently he teaches the advanced group and the senior ladies. For 20 years he was artistic director of its prize-winning performance group. In addition he has studied dance in Romania and Hungary and has taught folkdance in many countries. He is also a primary school teacher, and another of his specialities is children's dances. We are very fortunate to be able to welcome André to Christchurch for a second visit, following a successful workshop in 2004.
